BEFORE YOU USE IT

Make the system feel personal.

Use this file as the polished base. Replace brackets, offers, services, client details, and local language so every asset sounds like the business using it.

THE RULE

Keep the strategy intact, but make every client-facing line specific. Beauty buyers respond to trust, taste, timing, and a sense that the experience was designed for them.

BEST PRACTICE

Batch the assets weekly. Turn prompts into posts, templates into follow-ups, and brand direction into a consistent client experience across every touchpoint.

Free Mini Guide 5 communication strategies that reduce first-timer anxiety, improve retention, and fill your treatment schedule The practices building waitlists aren't just delivering better results — they communicate better before, during, and after every appointment. Here are five systems that make the biggest difference. The Pre-Treatment Education Email First-time injectable and laser clients cancel primarily due to anxiety — not scheduling conflicts or budget. A pre-appointment education email sent 48 hours before first treatments reduces cancellations significantly.

Studio note: Use this as a polished starting point, then add one real detail so the finished asset feels personal.

[timeframe]. Warm, under 150 words. Sign as [Practitioner Name], [Spa Name]. The Maintenance Reminder System Botox clients who aren't reminded to rebook simply drift away — often to a competitor who followed up. A treatment-specific maintenance reminder sent at the right time is your most reliable retention tool. • Botox: reminder at 3-4 months (before results fully wear off) • Filler: reminder at 6 months • Laser packages: mid-series encouragement and next-session prompt • Skincare: seasonal product refresh outreach Write a Botox maintenance reminder email for med spa client [Name] who had Botox [X weeks/months] ago.
