Public Speaker

The AI Playbook for Public Speakers Book more paid engagements, negotiate your fee with confidence, build the LinkedIn presence that attracts event organizers, and create the speaker brand that commands premium rates

02

SPEAKER ASSET

Introduction

The professional speakers filling their calendars with paid engagements aren't just the most inspiring on stage. They respond to every inquiry quickly with materials that make event organizers feel certain they are making the right choice. They negotiate their fee with confidence rather than apologising for it. They maintain relationships with meeting planners, speaker bureaus, and event organizers who book them year after year. They build a LinkedIn and content presence that positions them as the obvious expert in their space. And they follow up after every engagement to generate the testimonials, referrals, and repeat bookings that compound over time. This playbook gives you 7 chapters covering every high-leverage scenario for professional speakers — keynote, workshop, corporate, conference, and virtual.

04

SPEAKER ASSET

Conversion

The inquiry Response System Event organizers and meeting planners are busy people who contact multiple speakers. A fast, professional, enthusiastic response with the right supporting materials wins a disproportionate number of bookings.

Prompt — Speaking inquiry Response Email

Write a professional, enthusiastic response to a speaking inquiry for my speaking business. The event organizer [Name] from [Company/Organization] reached out about speaking at [event name] on [date] for [audience description]. They mentioned: [paste key details — topic they need, format, duration, virtual/in-person]. My speaking specialty: [your topic/niche — e.g., leadership / resilience / sales / AI in business / DEI / mental health]. I want to: (1) express genuine enthusiasm for the opportunity, (2) briefly describe how my talk addresses their specific audience and objective, (3) ask 2-3 clarifying questions to build a tailored proposal, (4) mention my fee range if appropriate. Professional and warm. Under 250 words. Sign as [Your Name], [Business Name if applicable].

02

SPEAKER ASSET

Prompt — Post-Call Proposal Email

Write a post-call proposal email for a speaking engagement. I just spoke with [Name] from [Organization] about speaking at [event] on [date]. Audience: [description]. Proposed talk: [talk title and brief description]. Duration: [X minutes]. Format: [keynote/workshop/panel]. My fee: $[amount] which covers [what's included — preparation, travel, pre-event call, follow-up materials]. I want this email to: (1) confirm what we discussed in specific terms, (2) describe the talk's value to their audience compellingly, (3) present the fee confidently, (4) outline the next steps. Professional and persuasive. Under 300 words.

Fee Negotiation With Confidence Fee negotiation is where many professional speakers leave significant money on the table — either accepting the first offer or apologising for their rate. A confident, value- anchored approach closes at higher fees without damaging the relationship.

04

SPEAKER ASSET

Prompt — Fee Negotiation Response

Write a professional response to an event organizer who said my speaking fee is above their budget. My fee: $[amount]. Their budget: $[amount]. I want to: (1) acknowledge their constraints without apologising for my rate, (2) briefly reframe the value of my talk relative to the investment, (3) if appropriate, offer one genuine alternative — a shorter format, a virtual option, or a bundled workshop rate — without devaluing my standard fee. Confident and collaborative. Under 200 words. Sign as [Your Name].

Your Speaker One-Sheet A one-sheet is a single-page PDF summary of your speaking offer — your topic(s), key outcomes, social proof, and booking contact. It is the most important document a professional speaker has and most speakers have one that is either outdated or generic.

02

SPEAKER ASSET

Prompt — Speaker One-Sheet Copy

Write the copy for my professional speaker one-sheet. My name: [Name]. My speaking topic/niche: [topic]. My signature talk title: [title]. The 3 key outcomes audiences leave with: [outcomes]. My background credibility: [relevant credentials, experience, notable past engagements]. 3 testimonials or quotes: [paste quotes if available]. My speaking style in 2 sentences: [describe your style — e.g., 'data-driven and story-led' / 'high energy and immediately practical']. I want the copy to: be punchy and skimmable, communicate value to event organizers, and end with a clear booking CTA. Under 400 words total.

03

SPEAKER ASSET

Prompt — Speaker Bio (3 Lengths)

Write three versions of my professional speaker bio: (1) long form (200 words) for event programmes and websites, (2) medium form (100 words) for event introductions, (3) short form (50 words) for social media and slides. My name: [Name]. My speaking topic: [topic]. Key credentials: [your background — experience, titles, notable achievements]. Signature talk or specialty: [describe]. Style and approach: [2-3 words]. Written in third person. Professional and authoritative.

Chapter 4: LinkedIn & Content Strategy

LinkedIn as Your Primary Booking Channel LinkedIn is the highest-ROI content platform for professional speakers. Your audience — event organizers, HR directors, L&D managers, conference chairs, CEOs — is there daily. One strong LinkedIn post reaches hundreds of potential bookers with zero ad spend. The speakers who post consistently on LinkedIn fill their calendars with inbound inquiries.

Chapter 5: Post-Engagement System

Turning Every Engagement into Future Bookings The period immediately after a successful speaking engagement is when you are most top-of-mind with the organizer, most likely to receive a referral, and most likely to be re- engaged. Most speakers never systematically follow up. The ones who do see compounding results.
